IN HER NIGHT ROBE.

A Sleep-Walking Young Woman's Experience in a Bayonne Marsh.

Found, Chilled and Moaning, Sunk to Her Knees in Mud.

Wandered from Her Aunt's Home in a Somnambulistic Fit.

Pauline Schultz, a white-faced, dark-haired girl of twenty-four years, living with her mother at 9 Frankfort street, has just undergone a most romantic and startling experience, and nearly frightened a Jerseyman out of his wits.

A nervous citizen of Bayonne was frightened out of a year's growth in the darkness of the wee small hours yesterday morning.

He had been "spending the evening" with his best girl, and along towards 2 o'clock in the "evening" he set out for home across the salt meadows lying between Constable Hook and Centerville.

He was startled "right in the midst of the marsh by the sudden appearance, as if out of the ground, of a figure clad in the airy robes of white which returned spirits are popularly supposed to affect.

The young lover didn't wait to be interviewed, but didn't stop running till he reached Police Headquarters at Bayonne, and then, while he clutched the railing before Serret, Cavanaugh's desk, he gasped between his chattering teeth that he had been pursued by a ghost.

As he was soothed into a little calmer by the Sergeant he said and knew it was a ghost because it was so frail.

Serret, Cavanaugh like a ghost story, too, and he called in two patrolmen and pointed them off with orders to capture that ghost if it was a possible thing.

The policemen hunted high and low in the marsh; but their rubber boots full of water and their clothing drenched with mud, their minds were occupied with the possibility of there being two policemen's widows in Bayonne when they arrived at a ditch.

And there in the ditch was the ghost. It was making a wild, weird, moaning noise, and almost paralyzing fear, the bluecoats advanced on it with drawn clubs.

But, lo! The ghost had shoulders and substance. They thought it was the mind into which it had sunk up to the knees, and on a little further ground they examined it.

It was a young woman, unassuming, and as cold and clammy as a corpse. She was clad only in a chemise and nightgown.

The officers hurried to the house of the nearest physician, Dr. F. P. Litch, and under the ministrations of the doctor she revived sufficiently to tell that she was Miss Pauline Schultz, of 9 Frankfort street, New York, and had been visiting with her mother at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Fremont, of Avenue A, Bayonne. She didn't know how she happened to be in the marshes at that unseasonable hour and clad so unseasonably.

She was returned to her aunt's home and came home this morning. She was asleep when an EVENING WORLD reporter called at the humble home, but her sister, Mrs. Fanz, said that, aside from a slight cold, she was none the worse for her experience.

Pauline has always been very nervous since her childhood. "Mrs. Fanz," "If I take her has been subject to fits of aberration from her nervousness, and at such times she does most unaccountable things. She was in bed at her aunt's at midnight, and must have had one of her fits of somnambulism during the next hour. She can remember nothing about it, except that she now how she got more than a mile away from the marshes. The doctor said that she would have been killed or dead in another hour had she not been found."

Prosecuting North Carolina Lynchers. (SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 30. The hearing of evidence in the case against the thirty men arrested in Davidson County charged with lynching Younan Berrier was continued at Lexington today, but nothing new was disclosed. Two State witnesses are dodging the officers and so far have eluded them. These two witnesses, it is believed, can identify the order to guard against attempted rescue of the men Col. J. T. Anthony, of the State Guard, has insisted that the men be kept in custody and that they themselves in readiness for duty and if any outbreak should occur at Lexington the militia would be on the scene promptly. Berrier's father is in well-to-do circumstances and will spend any amount of money to prosecute the lynchers. It is also stated that the defendants can command any amount they may need.

LADIES' HOUSE WRAPPERS.

Attention is called to a recent importation of French Flannel Wrappers, at prices quite as low as those of domestic make. An early inspection is recommended, as these wrappers have only been received in limited quantity.

Also, another importation of our famous Corset, "The Diane," in six different styles, ranging in price from $1.50 to $5.50 per pair. Our One-Dollar Corset has proved a favorite and is, in many instances, preferred to any other style.

These different grades of Corsets are manufactured solely for us.

MARIE'S SUDDEN FLIGHT.

MISS HALTON, OF THE CASINO, NOW ON HER WAY TO ENGLAND.

In the theatrical world the enigma of Miss Marie Halton, the beautiful Casino soubrette, Marie's musical voice will be heard no more in the role of Claudine, the vivandiere in "The Drum Major," as by this time she is well on her way to England, having dropped a bombshell of surprise among her friends by taking a sudden departure for the other side on the City of Paris, which sailed yesterday morning.

Miss Halton's friends declare that she has called with Mr. Joseph Lewis, who is reported to be a diamond-broker of London on a visit to this country.

Lewis and Miss Halton were intimate friends during the former's stay in this city, and when he was about to sail Miss Halton and a party of friends, among whom was Sylvia Gertrude, went to the wharf to see him off.

When the bell rang for "all ashore," Miss Halton started her companions by remarking, "I guess I'll go along, too," and before they could recover from their surprise they were standing on the dock watching Miss Halton wave her handkerchief to them from the receding vessel.

Her trip, though hurried, was promulgated, for all halting had been removed from her flat at 22nd West Forty-third street, and her fourteen-year-old brother Sam had been given $20 with which to go to Philadelphia and stay with relatives pending his sister's return.

A Thief with a Warm Heart. (SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. Louis James, a colored man, was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing the wine from the house of the Haytian Legation, West street, Mickey McGrath, a multi-colored, three-year-old, went along. While passing a grocery store in Varick street Mickey picked up a sugar bowl and was about to put it in the basket when Annie detested him, slapped his fingers and put it back in its place. Then Mickey snatched two pairs of shoes from a negro standing there and ran off with them. The storekeeper ran out and Annie banded him back the shoes. Annie and her mischievous companion continued their journey until they were stopped by a strange woman who asked the girl to hold a parcel for her for a few moments. The woman did not return and Annie explored the parcel, finding a bag of sugar, a package of herrings, a small fruit, a wooden cap and other small articles. Mickey McGrath, who had been notified by Mrs. Clark of the grocery store, about the girl and her basket, came up at this juncture and arrested her. She told him the foregoing story. The case was then referred to a justice of the peace at No. 250 Bleecker street. At Jefferson Market yesterday the girl said nothing, but chewed gum and wept. She was committed to $500 bail for trial. Agent Burdette will investigate the matter.

Mary Washington's Monument. (SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Oct. 30. A Mary Washington Monument Association was formed by ladies here yesterday, to co-operate with the one formed in Boston four days ago. The city government is taking an active interest in the matter, for, and there seems little doubt that a fitting memorial will in due time be placed over the grave of our first President's mother.

Miss Mowatt's Fight for Her Property.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

NEWARK, N. Y., Oct. 30. The Mowatt troubles, that have been in the courts for some time past, between Mary E. Mowatt, of Flukill, and her brothers, sisters and other relatives, to recover possession of Mexican property valued at over $200,000, have assumed a new phase. Miss Mowatt not long since obtained an injunction from Judge Barnard restraining the defendants from receiving the income from the property, amounting to about $20,000 per annum. Now the defendants have applied to the courts for a receiver, that the income may be turned over to him instead of to Miss Mowatt. The case will be argued in about two weeks. It will be remembered that the defendants secured the property referred to through threats of showing that improper relations existed between Miss Mowatt and her brother, who was then living in Mexico during his lifetime, and who on his death left her all his property, valued at $200,000. The original suit was brought by Miss Mowatt to recover the property thus obtained from her.
